Right Idea But Wrong Application

With the state's surplus approaching $100 million in the current fiscal year most of the politicians are figuring out how to spend it—all but one.

He is Senator Knox Nelson of Pine Bluff, a veteran and influential legislator.

Senator Nelson's idea is that, having inadvertently overtaken ourselves we ought now to reduce taxes—suggesting a cut of one-half to one per cent in both corporate and personal income taxes.

He's in the right church, but the wrong pew. What needs to be done first is to repeal the tax on services and labor which the last General Assembly enacted.

Arkansawyers pay 3 per cent sales tax when they buy a new car or a new pair of shoes—but ever since the last legislative session they have been paying 3 per cent sales tax on labor and parts every time they have their car repaired, and 3 per cent tax on leather and labor every time they take a pair of shoes to the cobbler.

Raising the income tax on corporations and individuals was something of which this editor approved, but extending the sales tax to repair services had our stout opposition. On this score I was advocating something that affected me, but I could afford a higher income tax, both personally and corporately. On the other hand a great many low-paid citizens can't afford double sales tax on cars and shoes.

If Senator Nelson does the right thing in the upcoming General Assembly he'll switch his tax reduction idea away from income taxes and put in the legislative hopper a bill to kill Arkansas' unfair sales tax on services.

2 planes collide; 9 killed

CHICAGO (AP) — A Delta Airlines jet should never have been near the site of a collision with a North Central Airlines jet in which nine persons were killed, a federal spokesman said today.

The crash occurred Wednesday night on North Central Flight 575 to Madison, Wis., and Duluth and International Falls, Minn., was taking off from O'Hare International Airport. The plane, carrying 46 persons, clipped the tail of a Delta Convair 440 which was taxiing to a holding area after landing on a flight from West Palm Beach and Tampa, Fla.

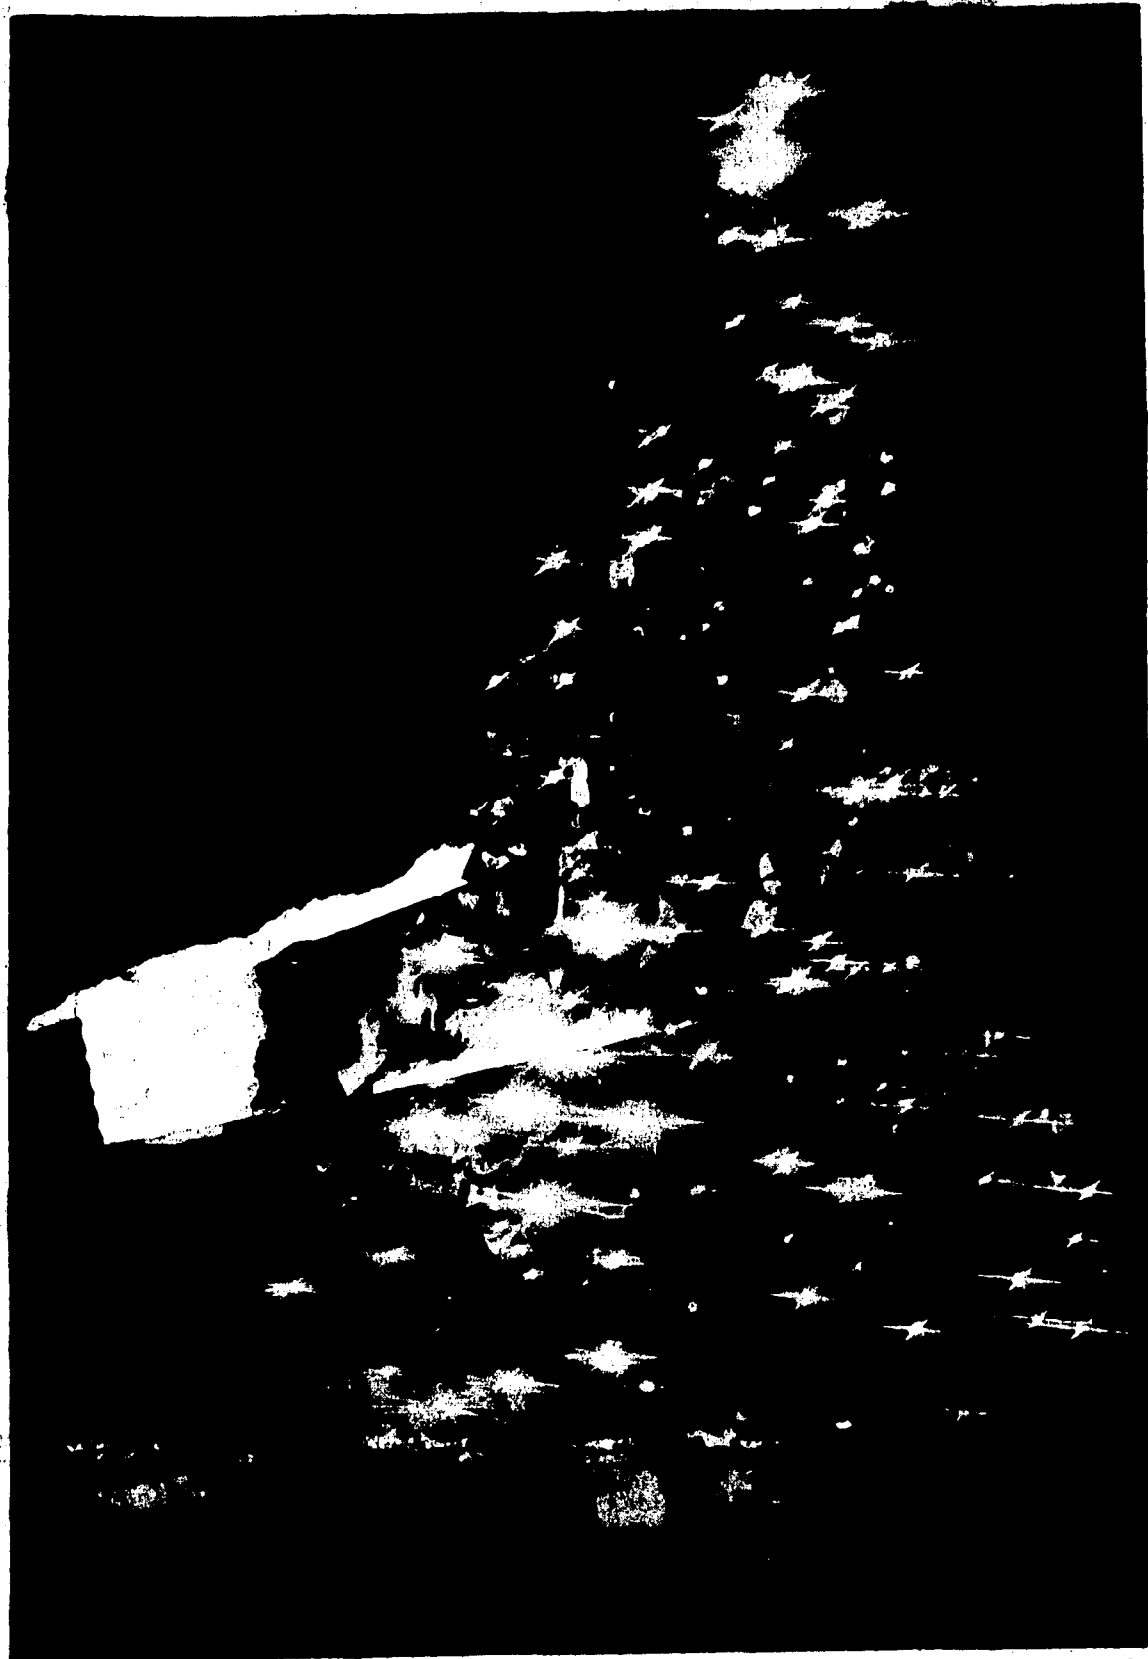

"The big question is why he (the Delta pilot) was even on that runway," said Neal Callahan, a spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration in Chicago. "There are only two explanations: Either the pilot goofed or the control tower goofed."

Why the Delta jet was crossing the runway, away from the terminal, at the time of the crash will be one of the key questions federal safety investigators will examine, Callahan said.

They will rely, in part, on tape recordings of the dialogue between the Delta plane crew and the plane's ground controller in the O'Hare tower, Callahan said.

The Delta plane was carrying 86 passengers and a crew of 7. All the victims were passengers on the North Central plane.

One Delta passenger said after the accident that "two seconds could have made the difference in all our lives."

Nixon-Kissinger rift rumors firmly denied

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP)

— The White House firmly denies a rift exists between President Nixon and Henry A. Kissinger, but reports persist that Nixon has tightened the reins on his chief Vietnam peace negotiator.

"Any speculation that the President and Dr. Kissinger are not unified (on Vietnam policy) is absolutely without foundation and untrue," presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Wednesday before Nixon flew to his daylong home here to spend the Christmas holidays.

En route to Florida, Kissinger conferred with Nixon aboard the President's jetliner. They will be joined here late today or Friday by Kissinger's top aide, Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., who was due in from Saigon.

The White House had no immediate comment on Saigon reports saying Haig gave President Nguyen Van Thieu a personal letter from Nixon warning that U.S. aid would be cut off if Thieu refused to sign a fair peace agreement.

Ziegler meanwhile, was emphatic in denying any disagreement between Nixon and Kissinger. "At no time ... has there been a division between the President and Dr. Kissinger regarding the negotiations," Ziegler himself has rejected what he called a "mischievous" theory that his relations with the President are frayed. "That is totally, 100 per cent wrong," he told one journalist.

Nonetheless, Washington's corps of Kissinger watchers — plus some of Kissinger's former Harvard colleagues — sense that all's not that well between the President and his assistant for national security affairs.

Much of the speculation is based on analysis of Kissinger's public reports on the secret peace negotiations. The President was mentioned specifically only three times in the optimistic speech of Oct. 26; but his role was 14 times in last week's announcement of an impasse.

Kissinger watchers also were curious about the fact that during a five-day Key Biscayne stay after the November election Nixon talked with Kissinger a number of times by telephone — but not in person. Kissinger was staying at a villa only a few blocks from the President's home.

Otherwise, there has been no public sign of a change in the pattern of frequent face-to-face meetings between Nixon and Kissinger.

Meanwhile, the academic community at Harvard is buzzing with talk that Kissinger was willing to make greater compromises than Nixon to reach an agreement to end the war.

Knight newspapers quoted one unidentified former Kissinger associate as saying, "Kissinger apparently was ready to give the North Vietnamese more than the President was."

Besides Kissinger and Haig, aides said Nixon will be working on his inaugural and State of the Union addresses in Florida.

Friendship treaty is signed

BERLIN (AP) — East and West Germany today signed their historic friendship treaty officially recognizing the post-war division of Germany and ending 20 years of cold war between its two halves.

West German Federal Minister Egon Bahr and East German State Secretary Michael Kohl, who negotiated the pact, looked sole as they signed in a ceremony at the seat of the East German government. The building was once the city hall of an undivided Berlin.

Neutral Austria and Sweden extended full diplomatic relations to East Germany today, the East German news agency, ADN, reported. The Indonesian government said it had done the same.

Switzerland on Wednesday became the first West European nation to recognize the Communist regime in East Berlin. Eleven other nations outside the Communist bloc established relations earlier after the treaty's ratification in Bonn on Nov. 8.

The treaty is written in general terms and is to be filled out with a series of agreements covering a wide range of activities. These for the first time are to take into account West Berlin's ties with West Germany, in the past denied by the Communists.

It opens the way for full membership of both German governments in the United Nations next year.

Prior to the signing ceremony, a West German official handed the East Germans a letter which reaffirmed Bonn's aim of national unity and the right of self-determination for all Germans.

These also were appended letters saying the treaty does not affect the rights of the occupation powers.

VN's Thieu warned

Nixon threatens to cut off aid, officials say

SAIGON AP — President Nixon has told President Nguyen Van Thieu he will cut off all military and economic aid to South Vietnam if Thieu refuses to sign the peace agreement Nixon expects Hanoi to agree to in the near future, high-level South Vietnamese officials said today.

Nixon also told Thieu not to try to circumvent U.S. peace efforts by making proposals of his own, as he did on Dec. 12, the officials reported. They said Nixon considered Thieu's proposal — made while Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho were negotiating in Paris — untimely.

Nixon's reported ultimatum was contained in a personal letter delivered Tuesday by Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., who flew from Washington as Nixon's emissary. Thieu discussed it with his National Security Council and then sent a reply by Haig, but what he said was not revealed.

The South Vietnamese sources also reported that after the breakdown of the Kissinger-Thieu negotiations on Dec. 13, Nixon sent North Vietnam an ultimatum giving it 72 hours to agree to his demand that Hanoi recognize South Vietnam as a separate state.

When he received no reply, Nixon ordered heavy military pressure brought to bear. Mining of North Vietnamese ports above the 20th parallel was resumed Dec. 17, and the next night hundreds of U.S. bombers launched the heaviest attack of the war on the Hanoi-Haiphong industrial complex.

Nixon told Thieu that he has plans to force Hanoi to sign a fair and just agreement and predicted it would be concluded in the near future, the South Vietnamese officials reported. They said Nixon urged Thieu to join in signing an agreement because the United States has all the means to achieve a reasonable peace.

Nixon was reported to have told Thieu in the strongest terms that South Vietnam would be cut off from military and economic aid if he refused to accept Nixon's peace terms.

Kissinger told a news conference in Washington last Saturday that a settlement was 80 per cent complete. He refused to discuss the issue blocking the settlement, but South Vietnamese officials said it was North Vietnam's refusal to agree in principle to recognize South Vietnam as a separate state.

Hanoi has always maintained that North and South Vietnam are one nation and that the demilitarized zone between them is only a temporary dividing line, as provided by the 1954 Geneva Agreements.

Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam, refused to comment on Haig's visit but told newsmen there are still "some differences" between Saigon and Washington.

Condition of Truman unchanged

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Harry S. Truman continued his stubborn fight for life today with the help of an innovative treatment which his doctors hoped would reduce the dangerous level of poison in the former president's blood stream.

Truman remained in very serious condition at Research Hospital and Medical Center where he has been struggling since Dec. 5 to recover from lung congestion, bronchitis, a weakened heart and now, most critically, failing kidneys.

The fluid discharge of the kidneys increased somewhat Wednesday but continued to fail in purifying the blood. Dr. Wallace Graham, Truman's personal physician, said the blood urea nitrogen level is mounting in spite of increased output.

A hospital spokesman said if the level of urea nitrogen continued to climb it could induce a coma which might be fatal to the 88-year-old former president.

USSR-US ties depend on VN settlement

MOSCOW (AP) — Leonid I. Brezhnev said today that future Soviet-American relations will depend to a large extent on settlement of the war in Vietnam.

The general secretary of the Soviet Communist party condemned the new bombing attack on North Vietnam and called for a speedy end to "the dirtiest war in the history of the world." He said the Soviet government will spare no efforts in its support of North Vietnam's "courageous struggle."

Brezhnev was the chief speaker at the opening of the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the formation of the Soviet Union. He spoke to some 6,000 Soviet and foreign Communists in the Kremlin Palace of Congresses.

The negotiations with President Nixon in Moscow this spring were a big step forward in the development of Soviet-American relations," Brezhnev said.

"Much will depend on the course of events in the immediate future and, in particular, on the turn in the question of ending the war in Vietnam."

Among the visitors in the audience was Truong Chinh, a top member of North Vietnam's ruling Politburo.

China demands end to bombing

TOKYO (AP) — China demanded today that the United States stop "all its bombing raids, mining, blockading and other acts of war" against North Vietnam and "speedily sign the agreement on ending the war and restoring peace in Vietnam."

A statement by the Foreign Ministry broadcast by the official Hsinhua news agency declared that "should the U.S. government disregard the desire of the people of Vietnam...the Chinese people will, as always, resolutely perform their internationalist duty and give all-out support and assistance to the Vietnamese people."

Congress may try to end war

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's Democratic and Republican leaders anticipate Congress will try to end the war in Vietnam if President Nixon doesn't do it himself.

Sen. Hugh Scott, the GOP leader, defending administration policy, warned it will be "next to impossible" to gain congressional approval of any new military or economic aid for Saigon while the conflict continues.

Majority leader Mike Mansfield of Montana denounced the expanded bombing and the mining of North Vietnam as "the road to a continuing impasse," and said he will press anew for legislation calling for an end to the war.

It would be weeks before any antiwar legislation could be shaped and acted upon in the new Congress which convenes Jan. 3.

Mansfield said he expects other members of the Senate and House will be proposing war-ending legislation. "I think there's a great deal of distress in the Congress," he told a news conference.

"It is long past the time when we should consider people, not power or prestige, and go back to the Oct. 26 agreement, which held out the prospect of peace this year," Mansfield said.

Henry Kissinger, Nixon's national security adviser, had said in October that peace was at hand. Washington and Hanoi have since accused each other of blocking a settlement.

Republican Scott said he was "heart-sick and disappointed at the way things are going." But he said Nixon ordered the renewed mining and bombing on the basis of the best available intelligence, and the judgment that it was the only way to push Hanoi toward an agreement.

Both Scott and Mansfield said the position of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu appears to have made the U.S. peace quest more difficult, and that this will confront the administration with a problem in Congress.

"I think it would be next to impossible to get any funds for aid to the Thieu government unless peace is worked out," Scott said.

While the Senate has three times approved legislation urging an end to the war, Congress has not gone to the point of enforcing its appropriations power to compel an end to U.S. involvement.

They lay date in early congressional action may be Feb. 28 when current foreign aid spending authority, including some aspects of Vietnam assistance, lapses. Congress will have to adopt some measure to extend it, and that may become the vehicle for efforts to end U.S. involvement in the war.

Pub raked by machine gun fire

BELFAST (AP) — Two masked men burst into a Londonderry pub and opened up with submachine guns on the crowd watching soccer on television. They killed five persons and wounded four, boosting the day's death toll in Northern Ireland to eight.

It was the Province's third bloodiest day this year, and there was speculation that the pub slayings Wednesday night were in reprisal for the day's first killing.

The day began with a flurry of bombing that panicked Christmas shoppers but brought no casualties. Then assassins struck in Belfast, Clonmore and Londonderry.

The first to die was a Protestant member of the volunteer militia, shot in the back by a sniper as he took an off-duty stroll by a Londonderry reservoir.

Next, a Roman Catholic was shot near his Belfast home as he waited for a bus. Then another Catholic was felled by bullets in a lane at Clonmore in County Tyrone.

Finally, the two masked men kicked open the door of the top of the Hill pub in Londonderry as some 40 persons were crammed into the bar. A getaway car, its engine running, waited outside.

Each raider opened fire with a submachine gun and four persons fell dead. Another man died in a hospital. Four more were wounded. Police said the dead included three Catholics and one Protestant, and wounded two Catholics and two Protestants.

Another man was shot and wounded in Belfast during the night: police said his condition was grave.

There was speculation the pub attack was in retaliation for the death of the Protestant militiaman. The bar is frequented mostly by Catholics and is in an area surrounded by Protestants.

Northern Ireland's total of confirmed fatalities in the communal violence rose to 444 for the year and 676 since August 1969. That is 10 more than were reckoned killed in the Irish Civil War of 1922-3.

Meanwhile, William Whitelaw, Britain's administrator for Northern Ireland, told the British Parliament Wednesday he would introduce legislation based on a commission's recommendations for changes in the judicial process for persons accused of terrorism.

The commission, headed by former High Court Judge Lord Diplock, called for trial by a single judge instead of juries that might be intimidated, restrictions on bail and new powers of arrest for the army. The recommendations were attacked by Catholic groups in the province as an infringement of civil liberties.

Communists walk out on peace talks

PARIS (AP) — The Communist delegations walked out of the weekly session of the Vietnam peace talks today in protest against the American bombing of North Vietnam.

Hanoi's deputy negotiator Nguyen Minh Vy and the Viet Cong's Dinh Ba Thi read prepared statements at the start of the meeting and then walked out without giving the American and Saigon representatives a chance to reply.

The two Communist speakers vehemently denounced the "terror bombing" of densely populated areas of Hanoi and Haiphong and said they would not be intimidated by the war escalation ordered by President Nixon.

23 ARE POISONED
ARKADELPHIA, Ark. (AP) — Twenty-three persons were hospitalized here Wednesday, apparently with food poisoning, after attending a Christmas luncheon at the Levi Strauss clothing manufacturing plant.

Robert G. Holmes, Clark County Hospital administrator, said 23 persons were admitted, and that altogether "probably 100" were seen by doctors.

3 more B52s lost

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command today reported the loss of three more B52 heavy bombers as the heaviest raids of the war continued on the Hanoi-Haiphong industrial complex.

A total of 12 crewmen are missing in the three B52 crashes, the command said.

Six other B52 crewmen nursed their crippled B52 part way home, then parachuted to safety in northeast Thailand Wednesday night.

The announcement raised total losses acknowledged by the U.S. Command since the heavy attacks began Monday night to six B52s and two fighter-bombers downed and 27 fliers missing.

Heavy civilian casualties also were claimed by North Vietnam.

North Vietnam claimed its forces have shot down 12 B52s and 14 fighter-bombers, including seven B52s and an F111 swing-wing fighter-bomber on Wednesday night.

Hanoi said President Nixon had lost his senses and declared, "The criminal bombings made by the U.S. aggressors have only dimmed the prospects of a peaceful settlement. The Vietnamese people are determined to fight and fight hard till complete victory."

As the U.S. air attack continued, the Viet Cong announced it would observe 24-hour ceasefires in South Vietnam for Christmas and the New Year, beginning at 1 p.m. Saigon time on Dec. 24 and Dec. 31.

The South Vietnamese government was expected to announce similar truce periods, but this was not expected to extend to U.S. air forces operating against North Vietnam.

Radio Hanoi broadcasts reported that the American raids wiped out entire villages, wrecked thousands of homes and demolished many economic, cultural and social establishments. One broadcast said the Eye, Ear, and Throat Institute of the Bach Mai Hospital in Hanoi was hit Tuesday and many doctors were killed and wounded.

Tapes go to court

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Los Angeles Times today turned over to the U.S. District Court in Washington tape recordings which the newspaper had considered confidential until the tapes were released by the news source involved in making the recordings.

The surprise move came as the Times was preparing to take its case to the Supreme Court in an effort to prevent its Washington bureau chief, John F. Lawrence, from being sent back to jail for refusing to surrender the tapes.

The recordings by two Times reporters are of interviews with Alfred C. Baldwin III, alleged to be a government witness in the trial next month of seven men charged in the break-in and alleged bugging of Democratic National Committee headquarters in Washington.

At some yule parties, we'd gladly see the old custom of having the bore's head brought in on a platter.

A Santa clause is what you forgot to read when you took out that time payment on a fur coat for the frau.

Mrs. Pine hosts Yule party

A traditional Christmas party in New England is the Cookie Swap, and such an informal and festive treat was given by Mrs. Raymond Pine on Monday, Dec. 18. Six friends and 12 children gathered to exchange cookies and fellowship in a setting enhanced by pine boughs, holly, and candles, plus a wreath and the traditional tree. Additional decorations were unusual things like a wall "tree" made of egg cartons, balls and tinsel.

Hotspiced punch, candy, and the many kinds of cookies were served for refreshments. Each one attending brought an empty container and returned home with samples of everyone's culinary art.

Hopewell students make Christmas visits

Class officers and members of the Good Citizen Club at Hopewell School visited various nursing homes, hospitals, and day care centers this week to distribute Christmas greetings and refreshments.

The handmade greeting cards and refreshments were made by members of the class and were presented to residents of Heritage Manor, Hempstead County Memorial Hospital Nursing Home, and the School of Hope.

Homemade gifts give pleasure

By AILEEN SNODDY

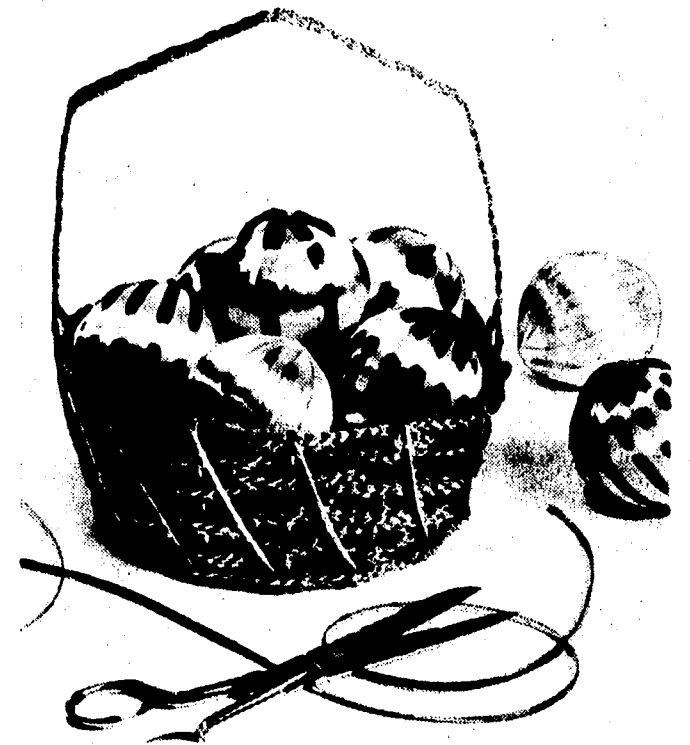

Everyone appreciates the very personal touch associated with a homemade gift. One that is both decorative and useful brings double pleasure to the receiver of such a thoughtful item. A good project for an older child or a group of adults is gold braided "straw" basket. The basket filled with ribbon or metallic ornaments makes a simple centerpiece.

To make such a basket created by the Norcross Design Studios you will need:

Eight spools gold Lustre-Cord, 15 nine-inch pipe cleaners, heavy cardboard, white glue, florist wire #24, scissors, knife, compass and pencil.

To make the basket base: Cut 3 six-inch circles of cardboard. Cover the surface of one circle with a spiral of Lustre-Cord. Starting at center, wrap towards outside, gluing as you go. Mark edge of other circle into 15 equal spaces. Cut 15 nine-inch lengths of Lustre-Cord. Remove cotton core from each. Insert pipe cleaners into Lustre-Cord. Glue one end of each to mark on circle. Glue Lustre-Cord covered circle over them.

To make sides of basket: Make a four-strand braid by weaving right-hand strand across all others. Repeat with each new right-hand strand. Bend pipe cleaners up and weave braid through them. Side of basket is eight braids high. Glue braid to each pipe cleaner on inside. Bend top of each pipe cleaner downward on outside of basket to form "V" with bottom of adjacent pipe cleaner. Insert excess between layers of cardboard base. Make another four-strand braid to circle outside edge of base. Glue in place.

To make the handle: Cut four 24-inch lengths of Lustre-Cord. Remove core. Insert florist wire in each. Make 13-inch braid with four inches unbraided at each end. Form "Y" at each end by twisting wired Lustre-Cord into pairs. Cut end two inches from end of braid. Hook ends onto basket. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Thumbs Down on Holding Hands?

HELEN AND SUE:
I have a good, steady girlfriend. When we meet in the hall at school we think it's okay to hold hands, but our principal has a rule that says there can be no physical contact between boys and girls. Heck, I wouldn't kiss her madly or anything, but what's wrong with walking down the hall hand-in-hand? Yet the teachers watch us like hawks.

They keep preaching "maturity" at high school and how we should act grown up.

Well, adults show these little signs of affections and everyone thinks it's great that they care. Why not us?—SLAPPED DOWN FOR HOLDING HANDS SDFHH:

Good point! Why not make it to your principal? Like with a letter to the editor of your school paper? If the principal and teachers still thumbs-down hand-holding, then ask them nicely to knock off the "grown-up" jargon.—SUE

DEAR SLAPPED DOWN:
Principals who waste time enforcing silly rules subtract valuable time from the learning process. They end up with resentful students and teachers - turned - hall-monitors (often against their wills).

Good luck with your campaign.—HELEN

Razorbacks: Analyzing mistakes at season's end

By HARRY KING
Associated Press Writer
FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Razorbacks, touted as national championship contenders, struggled to a 6-5 season.

Why? Coach Frank Broyles' theory is multifaceted—shattered confidence, overrated in the beginning, poor recruiting seasons in the past, and, yes, some coaching mistakes.

In Texas Football's annual preseason poll, Arkansas was first on 19 of 24 ballots. What the writers didn't know, Broyles says, enemy coaches did.

That was: —Quarterback Joe Ferguson was a deadly passer against anything resembling an honest defense. One University of Southern California assistant told one of his assistants, Broyles said, that the Trojans staff's greatest fear was that Ferguson would beat them with his arm. They risked much to prevent that, flooding the secondary with defenders. Others were to follow the same pattern. —With an opposing defense overloaded so heavily against the pass, Arkansas theoretically would be able to run. But this is where recruiting, coaching errors, and plain old bad luck figured into the picture.

Strange as it sounds, Broyles says Ferguson's passing ability brought on many of the offensive problems.

"Had he not been as successful a passer, where they would have felt like they didn't have to do anything special and could play more people on the run, then he would have thrown for a lot more success," Broyles said. "His prowess at passing is what forced everybody into this and we weren't strong enough to take advantage of the way they were playing us."

"They said, 'Well, if you're going to beat us, you're going to have to beat us with you,' fullback. We're not going to let (Dickey) Morton get it wide and we're not going to let Ferguson throw it, now let's see what you can do."

Broyles said he knew at the conclusion of spring practice that the Razorbacks had not solved problems at defensive end, fullback and in the secondary.

He could either get hit with a load of wet crying towels or hope for the best. He chose the latter.

"I tried to make it as plain as I could without hurting our confidence," he said. "I just have to look at the good side of my players and hope things will develop for the best."

"I had hoped confidence and reputation would carry us through. Had we not opened with Southern Cal it might have. If we had gotten started off right our confidence might make us a better team than we really were. That's what I was hoping. That's about the only alternative you've got, that or just up and cry and say everybody's wrong and the team's not any good."

Arkansas went into the season opener against USC ranked

No. 4 in the country. USC, No. 8 at the time and No. 1 at the end of the regular season, won 31-10.

"That game took more out of us than I think any of us can really evaluate," Broyles said. "I don't think that we ever regained the confidence we had before that ball game."

Broyles said the confidence of the players, as individuals and as a team, began to erode "a little bit last year when we lost some games we should have won."

"Then after losing the Southern Cal game, rather than take the field like we did for a number of years feeling that we were the best team, on paper at least, and that we would win the game, the feeling began to seep in—are we a good team? and is it going to happen again?" he said.

How important is confidence? "It's like in playing golf," he said. "When you've got trees on the right and water on the left and you're playing good, you never see the trees and water. When you're not playing good, the ball's going to go in one or the other every time."

Arkansas had an open date after USC and it was then the Arkansas coaching staff decided "it was a mistake to ask Ferguson to run the option plays."

"We dropped our option attack and tried to get the ball to Dickey Morton 30 times a ball game," Broyles said.

Was eliminating the options a mistake?

"It probably was a mistake," he said. "We wouldn't be successful with them, but the threat of them might have forced the teams to play a little more the run and not stack their defenses completely against the pass. However, hindsight tells us that maybe they would have said, 'Go ahead and run the option, we're still going to stop Ferguson.'"

Despite trailing Oklahoma State, Tulsa and TCU, Arkansas went into the Texas game 4-1 and "feeling pretty

Colts start housecleaning

By LARRY SIDONS
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Colts, hoping to recapture the contender's role they held for so many years in the National Football League, have started what apparently will be a widespread house cleaning.

General Manager Joe Thomas commenced the cleaning process Wednesday by firing interim Coach John Sandusky and his five assistants.

"If you're going to spring clean, you have to do it from top to bottom," said Thomas in announcing the Colts' second coaching shakeup in a little more than two months.

Sandusky, who took over the Colts reins when Don McCafferty was fired after directing the club to just one victory in its first five games this fall, said he learned he had been dismissed when he came to the office Wednesday afternoon.

"Thomas called me into his office and said, 'I have had news for you. I've decided to clean house. You and the other coaches are through,'" Sandusky related. "He said he was going to make changes from top to bottom. I was at the top so I was the first to go."

Under the guidance of the one-time pro tackle, Baltimore won four of its last nine games and finished in third place in the American Conference East.

"I'm disappointed about his decision, but not bitter," Sandusky said. "I took the job when Don was fired because one of us (assistants) had to step up and fill out the team. I knew there was no guarantee that I'd be brought back next year."

Sandusky's appointment to fill in for McCafferty in October had helped to quiet some discontent among veteran players, shocked by Thomas' businesslike approach after years of pampering under former Colts' owner Carroll Rosenbloom.

Thomas said he had no one in mind to replace Sandusky and that, although it "would be nice" to have a new head coach by the start of the college player draft next month, this was not imperative.

O. J. leads parade to 1,000 yard club

NEW YORK (AP) — O.J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills, with a bit of help from the Washington bench, led a nine-player parade into the National Football League's 1,000-yard club this season.

It would have been 10 but for a fumbled pitchout.

According to the final and official regular-season statistics released today by the league, Simpson led all ground-gainers with 1,251 yards, surpassing Washington's idle Larry Brown in last Sunday's game against the Redskins.

Simpson went into the game 66 yards behind Brown's 1,182 but ripped through the Redskins for 101 yards and the NFL rushing title.

Brown was kept out of the game, won 24-17 by Buffalo, because of a slight injury.

Also breaking the 1,000-yard mark—as the 1962 league record of six players tumbled—were Ron Johnson of the New York Giants with 1,182 yards; Larry Conka of Miami, 1,117; Marv Hubbard of Oakland, 1,100; Franco Harris of Pittsburgh, 1,066; Calvin Hill of Dallas, 1,036; Mike Garrett of San Diego, 1,031, and John Brockington of Green Bay, 1,027.

And for a while last Sunday, Dave Hampton of Atlanta was a member of the club, too, reaching 1,000 yards on the second play of the final quarter against Kansas City.

But minutes later, he lost six yards on a pitchout, which he fumbled, then recovered. He carried just once more, for one yard, and wound up with 995 for the season.

Norm Sneed, who quarterbacked the Giants to a respectable 8-6 mark, finished as the National Conference's No. 1 passer. Earl Morrall, who took over for injured Bob Griese and led the Miami Dolphins through more than half of their perfect season, topped American Conference passers.

Harold Jackson of the NFC's Philadelphia Eagles led the league in pass receptions with 62 for 1,048 yards. Oakland's Fred Biletnikoff was the only repeat winner, taking the AFC receiving title with 88 for 882 yards.

Philadelphia also had the NFL's top pass interceptor in Bill Bradley, who grabbed off nine opposition aeriels. Mike Sembaugh of Kansas City led the AFC with eight.

Jerrel Wilson of the AFC's Kansas City Chiefs topped the league's punters with a 44.8-yard average. The No. 1 NFC punter was Dave Chapelle of the Los Angeles Rams at 44.2.

On punt returns, Ken Ellis of the Green Bay Packers led everyone with a 15.4-yard average while the AFC leader was Chris Fargasopoulos of the New York Jets with a 10.5 average.

On kickoff returns, the NFC again had the top man in Ron Smith of the Chicago Bears, who averaged 30.8 yards. Bruce Laird of the Baltimore Colts led the AFC with a 29.1-yard average.

And in scoring it was Chester Marcol of Green Bay. The rookie place-kicker, whose accurate toe was so instrumental in bringing the Packers back to the playoffs, kicked all 29 extra points and made 33 of 46 field goal attempts for 128 points. Bobby Howfield of the Jets hit 46 of 41 conversions and 27 of 37 three-pointers for 121 points to lead the AFC in scoring.

WORK AS USUAL—Mrs. Willie Mae Hinkle of Hope and 35 other Southwestern Bell telephone operators will be on duty Christmas Day as the telephone company prepares for one of their busiest periods. (See article below.)

Telephone operators are on duty Dec. 25

If you think no one works Christmas Day other than physicians, hospital employees, police and firemen, think again.

There'll be 36 long distance telephone operators on duty in Hope Christmas Day.

"It's one of the busiest days of the year in our office even though most of the calls made Christmas are dialed direct without an operator's assistance," according to chief operator Mrs. Susan James. "We expect about 17,000 calls in Hope and almost 300,000 in Arkansas."

"When a man or woman is employed as an operator, one of the first things we tell them is they'll be expected to work Christmas Day. So it doesn't come as a shock to them," she said.

Even though they'll put in a regular eight hour shift, the operators arrange time with their families for traditional Christmas occasions.

"We'll schedule our operators in such a way many will be off duty when calling is the least busy which is before 9 a.m. and between noon and 6 p.m. In fact, these same hours are the best time for people to place their calls to family and friends, especially if the calls are dialed direct," Mrs. James said.

Because of their Christmas Day work, you'd think a group of telephone operators would be the most likely candidates for Scrooge awards but Mrs. James said her people have decorated the offices and plenty of home-made goodies will be available for lunch breaks and coffee times December 25.

"They're a marvelous group of people who know their efforts make Christmas lots happier for local families who'll be calling that day," she said.

Major fight seen in legislature

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The cities and counties are gearing up for a major fight in the Arkansas Legislature over state aid to local governments and the Senate floor leader for their coming battle believes there is an "excellent chance" they'll get what they want.

Want they are after is a total of 7 per cent of state general revenues, a proposal Gov. Dale Bumpers strongly opposes.

Sen. John Bearden of Leachville, named Senate leader of the legislative effort by the cities and counties, said it could become "the most interesting issue" of the session, which begins Jan. 8.

Traditionally, the municipal and county governments have gone separate ways in lobbying for their portion of state aid, but they have joined forces for the first time behind the proposal to earmark 3 per cent of general revenues for the counties and 4 per cent for the cities. The 7 per cent slice would figure out to about $25 million in the next fiscal year, based on current projections of anticipated revenues.

The cities now divide $6 million in state aid and the counties split another $6 million.

Bumpers has proposed relatively slight increases—to $7.5 million for the cities in each year of the coming biennium and $6.75 million for the counties in each of the next two fiscal years.

The governor also has proposed turning back to the local governments all federal revenue sharing funds for which the cities and counties cannot qualify and therefore will accrue to the state. It is estimated that the funds will total about $4 million initially.

Bearden said in an interview that the governor's recommendations were unrealistic. Although he said he has not talked with the governor, Bearden said he thought Bumpers might increase his recommendations some.

But the senator said city and county leaders have indicated they are not willing to compromise.

"I have asked the leaders what their compromise point is, and they say they expect to get it (the 7 per cent) with no compromise," Bearden said.

"I don't think there's any question that we've got a good chance to pass it," Bearden said. "But it won't be easy, with the governor coming out and opposing it. He certainly can be a very formidable opponent."

Bumpers has said he is opposed philosophically to earmarking a set percentage of general revenues Bearden said he also opposed granting a flat percentage in the case of state departments, but he said the proposal for the cities and counties was analogous to the 3 per cent of general revenues that are committed annually for the operation of the constitutional and fiscal agencies.

Bearden conceded that there were legislators who also do not favor the idea of earmarking a percentage for the local governments. He said five or six had suggested to him that the legislature just appropriate $25 million without establishing a percentage, but that the cities and counties were unwilling, feeling "they are not in a compromising position."

The senator said the cities and counties could build a good case for their request. That includes a need for more money for such projects as sewer and street improvements and more fire and police protection. He also said the General Assembly had thrust upon the cities and counties added financial responsibility through legislative enactments such as shortening the work week of firemen, and requiring the employment of more firemen.

Restricted by the state Constitution on ways they can raise revenue, the cities and counties have run out of possible sources, Bearden said. He said the 1971 "home rule" legislation allowing cities to levy income and payroll taxes was no help because the municipalities could not win their adoption at the polls.

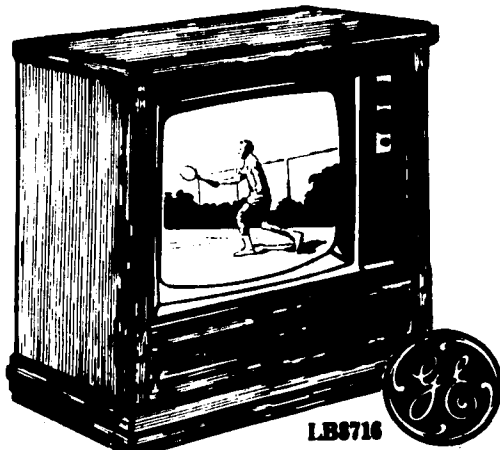

"It would be ridiculous to call an election," he said. "Most cities can't even pass a city automobile license."

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB Vitamin A Can Be Toxic

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Have you any information on the value of Vitamin A in controlling oily skin and hair condition? I have been taking three 25,000 unit vitamin A capsules a day (not by a doctor's prescription) and in two week's time this has greatly decreased the oily condition of my skin.

Are there any dangers or side effects from taking this vitamin A?

Dear Reader — Some doctors have reported good results in using vitamin A for skin conditions such as you describe, although there is not unanimous opinion about its use.

Within limited amounts vitamin A is not harmful, but in excess quantities, it can be dangerous. The American Medical Ass'n's view on this as expressed in their 1971 drug evaluations is "there is no satisfactory evidence that any additional benefits can be obtained from daily doses above 25,000 IU." Infants and young children are more apt to have toxic reactions to vitamin A than adults. Toxic reactions have been noted in infants less than three months of age, when they have been given as little as 18,500 IU a day.

Indications of vitamin A toxicity include loss of appetite, weight loss, itching of the rectum, cracked and bleeding lips, fatigue, abdominal discomfort, bone and joint pain, symptoms representative of brain tumor, loss of hair, brittle nails, insomnia and menstrual irregularities. Occasionally someone takes a large amount of vitamin A over a period of time and develops symptoms so similar to brain tumor that the doctors may think that is what the patient has, from all the different tests, unless they find out that the patient has been popping vitamin A tablets regularly.

In view of these known toxic effects from vitamin A and the lack of any evidence that you get any additional benefit beyond 25,000 units, it seems to me you would be much wiser to limit your intake to 25,000 units daily as a maximum dosage and you probably don't need that much.

The recommended daily allowance of vitamin A is about 5,000 units in adults and less in children and infants. Of course, initially you might need to take more if you have a true vitamin A deficiency, for example up to 25,000 IU daily. Once the initial deficiency has been corrected, there is very little reason to take more than 5,000 units a day.

Naturally preformed vitamin A is found in dairy products and meat. Most milk commercially distributed is already fortified with vitamin A. Green and yellow vegetables such as spinach and carrots are particularly good sources of material that the body uses to manufacture vitamin A. A person who eats a lot of yellow and green vegetables is not likely to be deficient in vitamin A unless he has some other defect in the digestive system. Incidentally, you can eat all of the green and yellow vegetables you want and never get vitamin A toxicity because the process of converting the substance in these vegetables to vitamin A in the body is so slow that it won't allow enough vitamin A to accumulate to cause toxicity.

There is an optimal amount of almost anything. Too little or too much can both be harmful.

Thumbs down on checks

By TIM REITERMAN
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Some stores are literally turning thumbs down when it comes to accepting checks — they're asking the customer to submit to a thumbprint. If the patron declines, his check will be refused, or, in some cases, he will be asked to submit to a photograph. The stores are using a fingerprinting machine which is unique in that it avoids customer contact with ink or chemicals. With the words, "Please personalize your check by pressing your thumb here," the customer is asked to deposit his invisible thumbprint on the back of his check. The clerk then inserts the check in a telephone size machine, called an Identifier, presses a lever and, presto, out comes a black fingerprint.

"It's no different than writing your signature, except that you can't forge a fingerprint," Oscar Pieper, president of Identifier Corp.

"People are very aware of crime today," he said. "Once they understand this is only to deter crime, they won't mind. What's the difference between their signing a check and giving a print?"

During a four-month trial in 100 Redwood City stores, Police Chief John McDonald said bad check artists were so leary of the black box that reported fraud and forgery cases were down 32 per cent from the same period the previous year. "All of a sudden people stopped passing bad paper in Redwood City," McDonald said. An estimated $10,000 was saved by the city's merchants, including about $4,300 by one large discount store.

The Identifier's main advantage, he said, is that it prevents forgers and those dealing in stolen checks from committing their crime without leaving behind incriminating evidence — their fingerprint.

What's more, McDonald said, stores reported a sharp decline in checks returned for insufficient funds.

Pieper said he has heard few complaints from customers who feel their privacy is being invaded.

One store trying the device, Sears Roebuck and Co. here, asks for fingerprints on all checks over $10. Steve Belavich, Sears regional head of security, said, "We don't require them to have a fingerprint."

But customers who refuse then are asked to show standard identification papers and to submit to a mug shot.

Relying on natural oils in the fingers to make a photostat, the Identifier chemically makes a fingerprint materialize in about 10 seconds.

Inmate testifies in prison hearing

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Patrick Maynard, 38, an inmate at Cummins Prison Farm, said Wednesday his physical condition had deteriorated since he entered the prison to serve a three-year sentence in October 1971.

Maynard said inmates often passed out in the prison's farm fields and were given no medical treatment.

His testimony came in hearings before U. S. District Court Judge J. Smith Hensley on conditions at the prison since he ruled on Feb. 18, 1970 that improvements had to be made to reach a constitutionally acceptable level in the Arkansas prisons.

Maynard testified that field workers constantly were run to and from their jobs in the fields. "The work of an inmate is unending — just solid...you don't get any breaks at any time unless you just fall out," he said.

Maynard said after he collapsed last February, the guard "took it easy" on him that day but that he received no medical attention.

He said he stayed 31 days in the prison infirmary with an undiagnosed illness and although a doctor was assigned to the infirmary, he said, no physician ever examined the patient.

Maynard said that as a result of a complaint he filed with the court, an examination at the State Hospital was given and the report showed lesions on his lungs and that he suffered from bronchitis. The diagnosis later was changed to calcium deposits on his lungs and asthma.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Boris Kovtchou has represented both France and North America in World Championship competition. He still plays in tournaments, but most of his current activity is in rubber bridge.

His bidding was based on the fact that his side had a part score of 80. North should really have passed at three no-trump and the final slam contract was a horror but Boris brought it home with good breaks and help from the defense.

He won the first trump in his own hand; cashed a second high trump; led a heart to dummy's king; a second heart back to his ace and ruffed his last heart with dummy's king of trumps.

Then he played another trump and East had to make a discard. The jack of hearts appeared to be worthless and East let it go.

Boris led a diamond to dummy's king and returned a diamond.

East made the mistake of playing his 10 and Boris had his chance. He won the trick with his ace; led back his last diamond and East was on lead with nothing but clubs.

He led the deuce and all Boris had to do was make the right choice between the queen and the 10. Needless to say, he did make it. He discarded a small club on dummy's last diamond.

NEW YORK (AP) - Almost every investor understands that corporations, like every product of creation or manufacture, have a past, present and future, and that each must be considered in making a decision.

The past tells the investor about the company's record, the present discloses if it is being maintained. Both are important items, but it is the unknown, the future, that fascinates, for that is where the money is made.

There has never been a successful broker who kept his eye on only the past and present. The world of investments is meaningful only in the context of the future. Otherwise it is unreal.

Nevertheless, the official policy of the Securities and Exchange Commission for nearly 40 years has required corporations to list massive amounts of data on the past and present while refusing to record projections.

That policy may soon change, however. Hearings recently were concluded in Washington to consider abandonment of the old SEC policy and permit companies to record estimates of future earnings.

Policy recommendations often take weeks to formulate, but there is speculation that this will be a speedy decision. The matter is close to Chairman William Casey's heart, and he must soon leave for the State Department.

Revealed in the hearings were lawyers' fears of the legal consequences of projections, the concern of officers about standards to be used, the doubts of accountants as to their role and responsibility.

One of the most consistent products was misunderstanding. As Casey said in an interview last week: "All we are doing is re-evaluating now our policy of prohibiting them. We are not demanding that forecasts be made. We are not going to mandate them. In my opinion, that is not a possibility nor is it desirable."

A far more likely solution will be to give companies the option to project or not to project, assuming that standards can be set so as to prevent flagrant abuses in the form of unrealistic goals.

Why then the furor? A good question and one that relates directly to the small investor and public confidence in the market place, which is now gradually being restored following one debacle after another.

As the chairman testified, "These projections are being put out now and they are being made available on a preferential basis." That is, they are being made unofficially or by informed brokers and offered to a favored few.

"No matter how one may theorize on this," Casey said at the hearings, "We have the reality that earnings estimates are made."

Moreover, he continued, "Investors and stock values do react to them, and fairness to investors may call for making them evenly available to all investors."

Rather than, it is suggested, to only a select list of insiders, analysts, big customers, creditors, subscribers to services and the like, who are then afforded an advantage in decision making.

If projections are so relevant to stock prices and investment decisions, why continue to ban them in official filings at the SEC? Especially while unofficial and often misleading estimates circulate widely?

The forthcoming decision not only will be relevant to every small investor, but it will determine whether the future, the reality, is to be recognized or ignored.

Death claim filed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The mother of a 17-year-old youth who died last year while serving a one-day sentence at Cummins Prison Farm under the "one-day wonder" program filed a $401,000 claim against the state Correction Department Wednesday.

Mrs. Audie Washington's claim said that Willie E. Stewart was subjected to inhumane and brutal treatment while serving his one-day sentence.

Her claim alleged that as a result of inhumane acts, Stewart died, either as a direct result of complete exhaustion or as a result of a "sickle cell crisis precipitated and brought about" by the acts.

Authorities said Stewart died at the prison of a variation of sickle cell anemia, a blood disease.

The claim said authorities were negligent by not giving a medical examination to Stewart, a black, on his admission to the prison. The claim said he weighed only 112 pounds at the time.

"Inhumane treatment" was administered with the knowledge and consent of the state Board of Correction, the state correction commissioner and officers of the state Correction Department and was used routinely in dealing with "one-day wonders" under a program that has since been discontinued, the petition said.

The claim said Stewart was "forced to undergo the brutal treatment for 18 hours without rest and without food."

It said he was forced to run before an automobile driven by Capt. Reggie Fletcher, was shot at by tower guard Joe Lewis and was required to do 30 minutes of continuous calisthenics.

The claim said Stewart was cursed, kicked, called a "nigger," and forced to walk eight or nine miles in addition to turning up and down farm turn rows, shouting, "I ain't going to steal no more."

Stewart underwent the treatment in 40-degree weather in which he wore only light clothing and "even that wet and cold due to his being forced to wallow in a pool of water, mud and sewage," the claim said.

The claim said Stewart was forced to run before a prison employee who was riding a horse and was hit by the animal's head and shoulder repeatedly.

People in the News

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bobby Sherman, a television and singing star with a teenage following, was married more than a year ago and is the father of a newborn son, a teen magazine has disclosed.

Sherman has called a news conference for Thursday to explain why he kept the marriage a secret. A spokesman for the singer has confirmed the magazine's disclosures.

Sherman listed his age as 28 when he obtained a marriage license in Ventura County to marry Patricia Carnel, then 20, on Sept. 26, 1971. The Roman Catholic ceremony was held at Encino. The couple had a son, Christopher Noel, born at Hollywood Presbyterian Hospital on Dec. 13.

Sherman was in the television series "Here Come the Brides" and "The Bobby Sherman Show." Carol Beck, editor of the magazine Flip, said she had a copy of the Sherman marriage license.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President and Mrs. Nixon will fly to their Key Biscayne, Fla., home late today for the Christmas holidays. The visit will mark the first time the Nixons have spent Christmas Day away from the White House.

Press secretary Ronald Ziegler said Tuesday he did not know when the Nixons would return to the capital. Normally, the chief executive resumes work after the New Year's celebrations.

The President's daughters, Tricia Cox and Julie Eisenhower, and their husbands will celebrate Christmas Day in Greece.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Zsa Zsa Gabor has filed a $15 million breach of contract suit, saying she was "scandalized" by the "racy" dialogue written for her in the movie "How to Seduce a Woman."

Miss Gabor said in her suit she agreed to take the part if the script were redone. She said that after she had appeared in a few scenes she received a final version of the script in which the dialogue was "improper, lurid, profane, objectionable and vulgar."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Prime Minister Eisaku Sato of Japan is planning a private visit to the capital and will attend the inauguration of President Nixon on Jan. 20.

Indictments to be opened

WARSAW, N.Y. (AP) — Fourteen more indictments dealing with last year's Attica prison rebellion remained to be opened as arraignment proceedings at the Wyoming County Courthouse today entered a fourth day.

Since Monday, 29 inmates or former inmates of Attica have been taken before Justice Carman F. Ball to hear charges ranging from murder to contraband filed against them.

Lawyer at the rural courthouse were hopeful the rest of the sealed indictments would be made public today.

It is possible, however, that more indictments will be handed down since the special grand jury probing the prison violence is continuing to meet.

Thirty-two inmates and 11 prison employees were killed in the 97-hour uprising by 1,200 prisoners.

Among the 14 men arraigned Wednesday were six accused of seizing employees of the prison metal shop as hostages. Three of the six employees taken prisoner subsequently were killed by gunfire during a police and guard assault that ended the insurrection Sept. 13, 1971.

Following the pattern of the earlier proceedings, all of Wednesday's arraignments were adjourned to next month so that the defendants could obtain counsel.
